Bolton Castle is a square and somewhat gloomy building which was erected in the reign of Richard II. by the first Lord Scrope. The Castle was the centre of much fighting during the Civil Wars, and remained in Royalist hands until 1645 it was surrendered after a severe siege, and only when the defenders were reduced to the consumption of horse-flesh as food. Mary Queen of Scots was imprisoned in this building for six months in 1568.

Dear Mrs Dimmick

I am very glad to hear you are enjoying yourselves. Hope the weather will keep fine. All the animals are quite well. Paddy likes his new home but sends a big kiss and a bigger hug to dear Joan
